WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 4.

Tun Glasgow Times is the Pack of the Kentucky press.

In the present Congress there are 163 new faces to be seen.

ALEXANDER DUMAS, the famous author, died at his home in Paris, France, last Wednesday.

SIR THOMAS DAVID B. HILL, the noted New York politician, will deliver a lecture on "Liberty" at Macaulay's theater in Louisville this evening.

It is said that there are $369,999.750 in gold hoarded or scattered through the country. Now we know what causes so many of those base dates on our subscription list.

The Mayville Public Ledger says the following excellent bit of advice was recently given to a young man who could not find any work: "My boy, observe the pageant of life; its usefulness depends upon its ability to stick to one thing until it gets there."

The Courier Journal's Washington correspondent presents the result of a poll of the Democratic members of the House on the financial question. It shows that out of a total of 104 Democrats, 56 are for free silver, 41 for sound money, and 7 doubtful. Of the doubtful, 5 are thought to be satisfied.

The outgoing and incoming Governors of Kentucky are just now being overruled with pleasure by the former for the sake of convenience, the latter for the distribution of office.

It is thought that the men of mental pressure will soon drive them to an exchange of the compliments of the two Carolina Governors.

The Todd County Progress has built itself a new office and moved thereto. It is proud of its location, and ready to do business, in which it is joined by the other boys of the Kentucky press. The Progress is one of the best papers that comes to our exchange table and it is with pleasure we note its well earned prosperity.

It has said to the credit of the South that it is building million-dollar harbors five continents of a motorious character. She has had no Haywoods, Holmes and Durants to blacken her name. The many men who have shocked the world with their florid crimes of late years have all been residents of some other section of country.

We have received a copy of the New Bohemian, a monthly monthly magazine, recently established at Cincinnati. It represents the literature and art, the social and other interest of the great Middle-West, and is especially intended as a vehicle for young writers and illustrators. It is especially interesting to Kentucky readers, and within its columns is seen much of the genius and talent of her writers.

The inauguration of Gov.-elect Bradley will take place at Frankfort next Tuesday. The occasion will be a big one. Bradley will be introduced to office amid great pomp and ceremony. Special trains will be run to the State's capital and about 600 members of the State Guard will be present. The sight of a Republican being inaugurated Governor of Kentucky will itself be unusual enough to draw a great crowd.

A CORRESPONDENT, in writing up Brigg's Case, in Edison County, says it has recently changed hands and been sold to California parties, who will use it for cold storage purposes and ship fruit, eggs and other perishable products there for long keeping. He says there is only one objectionable feature about the case and that is temperature within so cold that it freezes everything solid in a short while. Who turned up this tire?

SEVERAL Louisville chappies have gotten themselves into an embarrassing situation by their sporting propensities. Last summer, while rustinating at Villa Ridge Inn, they arranged a frank fight between two of the hotel porters. The affair came off and was witnessed under the eyes of many friends, the master up at circuit court investigated. A prominent lawyer has been engaged, who will probably get them out of the scrape.

LEWIS GEORGE CLARK, the original "Uncle Tom" in Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe's famous "Uncle Tom's Cabin," is now living in Frankfort in very destitute circumstances. Many good customers have gone away, and many dollars have been lost by him flying into a sense of alarm and loss of his commandancy over some trivial matter that a sober second thought and a calm answer would have brought around all right.

The giants in intellect and business sagacity of to-day are those plaid, immovable individuals who view alike the various scenes that pass before them. Calm reflection and sober judgment gives them a powerful advantage over an excitable and unreasonable antagonist. Civilization in business is not a less a mark of good breeding and splendid citizenry than it is in the social affairs of life. A cultivation of this good trait will bring success in many ways to one who practices it.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

[Our special correspondent.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 29, 1895.

President Cleveland has completed his tour of inspection of the South, and that interesting document was submitted to the Cabinet and discussed.

Its contents will, of course, remain secret until it goes to Congress, which will be held in January. The final day, the session of the House on Monday will be taken up by the election of Speaker and other officers of the body.

Mr. Reed must expect to be more like than just what will suit each particular mind, is a laborious task and one which has never yet been successfully accomplished. One reader wants to know, "What is the use of the paper, its usefulness depends upon its ability to stick to one thing until it gets there?"

Miss Linda Cox, a young woman, a few of her friends last Saturday night in honor of her cousin, Miss May Owen, Owensboro, Ky. The interest was highly enjoyed by all present.

While there were but few conversations during the recent protracted vacation, it is to be hoped that many of those men were equal to being bridge of such importance from their private means, when so many costly bridges have formerly been built from the country hand, is strange indeed.

A Right—Not a Charity.

Somebody has well said: "The payment of death claims is the legitimate function of a Life Insurance Company." This is true, but it is also a policy that maddened by the death of his husband, she does not receive charity. She virtually takes from the hand of the loving and kind husband the tree he had planted for her against the adversity—that which she has a right to receive, and for which HE PAID."

The duty of the widow man with a family to care for, defend and make able to make suitable provision for their well-being in event of his death, is too apparent to permit of argument. That the spinal and abdominal organs-for-life are the most valuable assets of the human body, and that the most economical method of thus making certain provision for one's dependent family, the business is rapidly coming to an understanding.

At present the United States Life Insurance Company paid to the dependents of families that have died in the N.Y. State Life.

Several thousands of this was paid in Kentucky and not a small sum came to Ohio county. Within the past five years more than $1,000,000.00 has been paid to dependents of those who have died in this country holding policies in the United States Life.

All life Insurance is a good investment, when taken in the proper company. The sooner you get it the better it is for you. Dependable claim companies with many other company in the United States.

All agree that the best way to pay off the N.Y. State Life is to take the premium.

There is no company and no agent as popular as S. R. Dent and the United States Life Insurance Company.

Prayer meeting will be resumed at the Methodist Church next evening, as usual, and it is hoped a good number will attend.

Marriage license applications for the month of December will be issued on the 1st of every month.
